

Green Tea to Undergo Renovations in June

Simsbury, Connecticut - Green Tea Chinese Restaurant, located at 570 Hopmeadow Street, will close on June 5, 2016 for significant renovations, and reopen with a new name and menu.

Owner James Chen is excited to overhaul the restaurant, which hasn't seen changes in more than a decade.

"We will have a larger, more extensive bar area with seating for up to 50, as well as a completely redesigned interior with private space for parties and events. We will also feature a new Asian-fusion style menu," he said.

The renovations are expected to take approximately four months. Customers who have Green Tea gift cards can either hold on to them until the re-opening, or use them at Mr. Chen's other two restaurants in Granby - Han Asian Cuisine or @TheBarn Restaurant.

"Simsbury is lucky to have such committed and talented small business owners such as James Chen, and we are excited to see the construction begin," noted Sarah Nielsen, Executive Director of Simsbury Main Street Partnership. "It is businesses like these that make Simsbury a dining destination for not just the Valley, but all of Greater Hartford."
